Mrs. Belmont Fears He Has Grown Too Old to Be Useful.

WORDS "BENEATH NOTICE"

Votes for Women Enthusiasts Defend Motives of Gen. Jones and Her Army.

Women are contrary creatures. The "silly, excited, hysterical" suffragists, as Right Rev. William C. Doane, Bishop of Albany, called them on Sunday, declined yesterday to live up to the name that had been given to them. They remained persistently calm and regarded Bishop Doane's accusation, as one of them put it, as "beneath notice."

"Why pay any attention to such remarks?" asked Miss Mary Garrett Hay. "It is only what one expects of an anti. They do not argue. They merely criticise. You can find some satisfaction in answering argument. But mere criticism is beneath notice."

Will such criticism keep you from walking in the March 3 parade at Washington?"

"It wouldn't if I intended to walk, but I do not. We of the New York suffrage party are going to do one thing and only one thing until that's done. We are going to work for suffrage in this State. My only athletic exercise until that is accomplished will be not marching but sitting on the job!"

When Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont was asked if she had read Bishop Doane's criticism of the suffrage walkers she nodded her head with a half pitying

"I'd rather you didn't ask me what I think of that incident," she said. "One must forgive an old man much, but one is not called on to forgive him everything. Bishop Doane's words are unworthy of a man in his position and seem to indicate that he has passed the period when he is sufficiently breast of the times to be useful."

Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, secretary of the National Suffrage Association, remarked tolerantly that "the good Bishop has been for some time a rather

What can you say about men like that, except to be sorry for them?" she replied. "He simply shows he is behind the times. Men do not realize one thing about women's work, and that is the difficulty they have in financing it. When men undertake a movement it is supported with adequate, have to conduct their affairs on a pin They have to save the pennies and they haven't many of those to save.

feetly harmless things to secure the publicity, which they cannot afford to pay for, they are ridiculed by the men. There have been remarkably few things dene by suffragists in this country that were objectionable. Certainly this Albany march has harmed no one, not even the women who made it And may have done much good. Therefore why this outbreak on the part of women all called him, more in pity that in the speculation, wherever one than in anger. She didn't quite like party makes a dollar some other party it though that he had said that while the American suffragists are not as behaved as those in England, their actions betray the same motives. The Bible says that we are not to silly and hysterical I think any one who has read the reports of the walk will agree that there has been no hysteria. When the auto in which they had gone make a speech the other day almost upset Rosalie Jones sat tight until the machine came to a stop. Then all she said was: Well, that's over!

"Could the Bishop himself have shown any greater lack of hysteria? As a of fact he has rather got into the habit of finding fault. Why pay any attention to him?"

The same sentiment was expressed Mrs. Arthur Townsend, who said that the Bishop seems to be the only really excited person to be found.

As for Rosalie," said Mrs. Townsend 'she has kept her head and her feet too, judging by the record of their march. I believe that the Bishop hasn't many sympathizers in his way of commenting on what these women have done. Most of the men I know have found their respect for the little army and their understanding of its purpose increasing every day. Most men wouldn't dream of taking that 170 mile walk, even for a principle. They respect the women who have done it And they admit that these women have reached hundreds of families along the who didn't know that suffrage was a live issue at all. That is what Gen. Rosatie set out to do and she has I think, done it without any silly, excitable or hysterical features, let the good Bishop say what he pleases to

WARNING TO INVESTORS.

L. S. Treasury Gold Mining Co. Has No Connection With Government.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.-The Treasury Department issued a statement to-day warning investors in the United States Treasury Gold Mining Company, which is sending out literature from Chicago, that it has no connection with the Federal Government. This company is said to own a mine at Telluride, Col., and its prospectus has been sent to the Treasury Department by a Chicago business man for the purpos of ascertaining whether the company had any connection with that Department. The Treasury Department's statement

The Treasury Department's statement says:

"It has been suggested in communications to this Department that the name 'The United States Treasury Gold Mining Company' may lead to the impression that the United States Treasury at Washington is in some manner connected with this company, and inquiry has been made as to whether or not the name is authorized by the United States Treasury. The Treasury of the United States is in no manner connected with 'The United States Treasury Gold Mining Company' and the use of the name adopted by this company has been in no way authorized by the Treasury Department."

That a combination of bidders and buyers has so controlled the public auctions of city property for years that prices have been kept down to practically nothing is the belief upon which the Commissioner of Accounts has begun an investigation.

The action of yesterday was taken y Commissioner Kenney at the Fire Department repair yards at West Fiftysixth street and Twelfth avenue. Mr. Kenney stopped the sale, closed the gates and handed out his summonses for the men to appear before the Commissioner of Accounts this morning. In investigating the city auction sales generally Mr. Kenney and some of the inspectors have been looking into sales of Fire Department property for some time. They have been aided by Fire Commissioner Johnson. They discovered that for twenty years the same set of junkmen in Manhattan and day at the trial of Archie L. Wisner and Brooklyn have been appearing at the sales. These men never made any bids personally. All the bids were made woman from San Francisco, told how the through agents who have changed from Wisner advertising literature had aroused time to time. COPPER SHOWS IMPROVEMENT.

Fair Sales of Metal Booked at 17%

What was considered the best day's business in many weeks was booked by copper producers yesterday. At the close of the ession it was estimated that several milion pounds of electrolytic copper had actually been sold at 17% cents a pound. securing this price upheld the contention of producing interests that conditions actually warranted their maintenance of this price level through a long period of

Throughout the day the trade had been considerably interested in reported huge sales of copper. By the way of Chicago a broker's private wire carried the infornation that the United States Steel Corporation had appeared as a buyer of 35,000,00 ounds, paying therefor the top price of 7% cents. None of the producers when seen by THE FUN man would admit having knowledge of such a transaction, and these denials were fortified to the fullest extent toward the close of the day, when it was tated on good authority that the Steel Corporation's alleged purchase was a myth. When the excitement over the report was at top pitch an old time copper man re-marked that it was the first time in his xperience that large sales of copper had been made through the medium of a stock

While actual business booked yesterday was not of huge proportions there was every evidence that big business would follow shortly. There was some export buying, and in fact this constituted the bulk of the day's bookings. Domestic nquiry was in evidence, but sales were comparatively small. Outlining the situation briefly a copper seller said: "First hand information from every part of the copper consuming world indicates very plainly that there has been no letup in the consumption of the metal. Busines aborad is not slowing down, while here plants continue exceedingly busy. Of course it should be remembered that always at this time of the year wire business falls off slightly owing to the fact that its use in outside construction is reduced to a minimum. On the other hand the brass business is at top notch. Stocks in consumers' hands have been reduced to a minimum and they simply must buy if they hope to keep their plants in operation." ourse it should be remembered that always

Age and Location Count in Favor of New York City Institutions.

Figures in the January circular of the National City Bank, issued yesterday, show that the profits of the twenty-four leading national banks of New Yerk city averaged only slightly higher than the profits shown by all the national banks of the country for the period 1906-1910. This is in spite of the natural advantage the New York banks have over othe institutions in the country in point of age, the long account they have built up in good will and their exceptionally advantageous location.

The National City Bank article shows that the average percentage of profits on the total of capital, surplus and un on the total of capital, surplus and undivided profits of the twenty-four leading banks of New York was 9.45 per cent. for the five years 1906-1910. This is lower, in fact, than the percentage of 9.8 per cent, which the Comptroller's report for 1911 shows was earned by all the national banks of the country on their capital and surplus for the same period. The article notes that if the percentage of profit of the New York banks were based on capital and surplus, with the item of undivided profits eliminated, the result might be slightly greater than the net earnings of all the banks. The total average working capital of the banks was $9,909,207 and the net banks was $3,909,207 and the net annual earnings in the five year period $936,301, with the percentage of profit 5.45 per cent. The percentage of profit on net deposits after 5 per cent. of the capital stock was deducted from the earnings was 1.19 per cent.

The circular observes: "Evidently the amount of deposits with a leady to the content of the circular observes."

amount of deposits which a bank handles and for which it is responsible must be considered in making any proper calcula-tion of profits; for unless a bank can make a reasonable profit upon these funds the shareholders had better put the bank into liquidation and lend their own capita without the risks and expenses attendant says: "Founded in 1812 the National City Bank says: "Founded in 1812 the National City Bank of New York during the five year period covered by the foregoing statements had an average invested capital of $50.332,340 and average net deposits of $166,009,400. The average annual earnings upon capital surplus undivided ings upon capital, surplus, undivided profits and net deposits was 2.37 per cent., the bank having made no loans at a higher rate than 6 per cent. After deducting 5 per cent. per annum upon its working capital the actual returns on its net des were 1.58 per cent. If the profits computed only upon the bank's own working capital the result would be an average annual earning of 10.2 per cent.
